SEIGNORAGE TO BE ISSUED AS COIN.

AN ISSUE OF $65,000,000 IN SILVER CERTIFICATES.

Democrats Driven to the Use of Every Expedient in Covering Up the Bad Condition Their Policy Has Brought About--Bland Carries His Point.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12—The seignorage is to be coined. The democratic majority will try another subterfuge to cover up the bankrupt condition they have created in the national treasury. The coinage committee in the house to-day reported favorably on the Bland bill proving for the coinage of the bullion now in the treasury. The bill provides for the immediate issue of sixty-five million dollars in silver certificates for the payment of government expenses, sixty five millions being the amount of seigniorage which is to be coined. There has been no tariff talk today. Yesterday afternoon after Congressman Breckenridge had finished, Mr. Richards (dem.) of Ohio addressed the committee. Mr. Richards' time having expired, the chair (Mr. O'Neill (dem.) of Massachusetts) recognized Mr. Dingley (rep.) of Maine.

Mr. Dingley declared that the advocates of the present bill termed it a measure to provide revenue, when in fact it was a bill to abolish revenue. In the light of the present condition of the treasury it was a bill for a deficiency only. Mr. Dingley then proceeded to argue that the foreign manufacturer practically pays a part and in some cases the whole of the duty by reducing prices in order to compete in American markets. In reply to the contention that the temporary deficiency in revenues of $76,000,000 which will be created by the bill will be offset by the increased importations, the speaker said that any increase of such importations would simply take away so much demand from our own mills and so much work from our own labor.

Mr. Dingley's hour having expired, Mr. Springer (dem.) of Illinois was recognized and defended the Wilson bill.

Mr. Springer's speech was greeted with applause, which continued for a long time after he took his seat. The breezy humor of the next speaker, Mr. Dolliver (rep., Iowa), attracted strict attention and elicited frequent laughter and applause. He criticised statements made by the chairman of the ways and means committee in his speech. At 3:45 Mr. Dolliver's time expired, and, amid the laughter and applause of the house and gallery, he took his seat.

Mr. Harter (dem., Ohio) addressed the committee, and kept up the good humor in which the house had been put by Mr. Dolliver. Mr. Harter, in his active, energetic and infectiously good-natured speech, kept the house in a perpetual roar of laughter. He said: "A protective tariff puts down wages and lowers their purchasing power by putting up the price of goods. Great Britain had a protective tariff up to 1842, but since the advent of free trade the wages of bricklayers, carpenters and similar mechanics increased 73 per cent. The average of wages in Great Britain increased $86.50 under free trade, while in my own district in Ohio under a protective policy the last thirty years there were skilled workingmen earning only $135 a year."

Mr. Brosius (rep., Pa.) was the last speaker of the afternoon. The Wilson bill, he said, was fairly liable to indictment upon the charge of assault with intent to kill the manufacturing industries of the United States, the intent being inferred from the nature of the weapons used. Without completing his remarks Mr. Brosius gave way for a motion that the committee rise, and at 5:25 p. m. a recess was taken until 8 o'clock.

Mr. Maguire (dem., Cal.) was the first speaker at the evening session. He arraigned the system of protection which enabled one company to accumulate a fortune of $200,000,000 in twenty-five years, as Carnegie & Co., are said to have done. To illustrate the failure of protection to raise the rate of wages or steady the price of a product he showed that coal from the mines of Pennsylvania, while it had a tariff protection of 75 cents a ton, sold at $3 a ton more than imported coal, although it could compete in foreign markets with foreign coal and at the same rate. And when the large mine owners wished to restrict production they leased and closed small mines, and threw the laborers in those mines out of employment, putting the support of the unemployed miners on the shoulders of the working miners.

Mr. Cockrell (dem., Texas) took the floor at 9 o'clotk and spoke in defense of the bill. He considered the bill in its general features and at the conclusion of his speech at 9:45 the house adjourned.

DAVIS DISCUSSES HAWAII.

Minnesota Senator Continues His Speech Begun Wednesday.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—In the senate yesterday numerous bills were reported from the committee on commerce and placed on the calendar. One to extend for six months the time within which the Aransas Pass Harbor company shall commence work. and for two years, the time within which a navigable depth of twenty feet shall be obtained on the outer bar, was reported and passed. Also a senate bill to provide an American register for the Clyde Line steamer El Callao. At the expiration of morning business Senator Davis took the floor and resumed his speech of Wednesday in relation to the Hawaiian difficulty. He specially dwelt on the fact that for the first time in thirty years an American flag had been hauled down under dishonorable circumstances. Mr. Davis went on to argue that if the President was justified in his demands for the withdrawal of the provisional government in Hawaii he would be justified in demanding change of government in Brazil and France on the ground that the people of those countries preferred an empire or a monarchy. Mr. Davis spoke for exactly two hours. As he took his seat he had a round of applause from his republican colleagues.

Mr. Turpie (dem., Ind.) then addressed the senate, opening with a historical sketch of the Hawaiian islands. He spoke of the provisional government as an accomplished fact, and asked: "Is the United States charged with the duty of keeping the peace and preserving the public order in all the countries where it has diplomatic representatives? The inquiry as to whether the new government would have succeeded without aid is beside the question. The interference occurred; and the best disclaimer, the most absolute disavowal of it, is the rejection of the proposal for any further or closer connection with Hawaii. Let the new government, however formed, proceed in its career. Intervention against it would be at this time as unlawful as intervention in its favor was when it occurred."

Referring to Mr. Stevens' frequent allusions to the queen of Hawaii as "the fallen queen," the "justly dethroned queen," the "late immoral occupant of the throne," Mr. Turpie showed much indignation of manner. He closed his speech as follows: "When we desire to enlarge our national domain by the acquisition of territory in the Hawaiian Islands or elsewhere it must come to us in the open hand, with the palm clean, pure, untainted. Or if it do not come and is taken, it will be taken by the strong arm, with drawn sword, in the eye of day, as prize of war waged against the public enemy. Then shall the flag of the republic float as oft before, in pride and glory over many a stricken field, won in battle, for the just—for the just, the free and the brave."

No action was taken either on Mr. Frye's resolution or on Mr. Turpie's. They both lie on the table. After a short executive session the senate at 5 p. m. adjourned.

No Cash for Witnesses.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—According to a communication laid before the house there is a deficiency of $400,000 in sight in the appropriation for fees for witnesses in the United States courts for this fiscal year. The house is asked to take immediate action on the estimate for the reason that the regular appropriation for the payment of witness fees is practically exhausted.

Oppose J. Scott Harrison.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12.—The senate committee on commerce ordered an adverse report on the nomination of J. Scott Harrison, brother of ex-President Harrison, nominated Dec. 12 last to be surveyor of customs at Kansas City, Mo.

Colorado Legislature.

DENVER, Colo., Jan. 12.—The members of the house in extra session assembled yesterday and began business in the best of spirits. Jokes and repartee were bandied about at the start and every motion was made the subject of mirth. Numerous petitions were presented and read, some urging immediate adjournment and others asking for legislation that will give workingmen employment. The extra session will last until Saturday at least, though the show for passing laws is slight should the house refuse to accept the concurrent resolution to be passed by the senate by a large majority vote. This is the situation generally conceded by the members themselves.

Will Call Out the Militia.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Jan. 12.—The adjutant-general of the state ceme to the city under orders from Gov. Mitchell to hold a conference with the officers of the military companies and to report to him the situation with regard to the arrangements for the Corbett-Mitchell fight in full. The general summoned the officers, and the situation was thoroughly discussed, Sheriff Broward of the county being also in the council. The governor says he will call out the entire militia force of the state if necessary.

For a Policy of Disarmament.

LONDON, Jan. 12.—In the house of commons yesterday William Byles, liberal, asked if the government, before it embarked upon costly naval expenditures, could see a way to communicate with other European powers with a view to establish a policy of mutual disarmament. Mr. Gladstone repiied that he did not consider the present time favorable for Painter Again Reprieved.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—George H. Painter, who was to have been hanged at 8 o'clock this morning for the murder of Alice Martin, was granted a respite by Gov. Altgeld at 9:50 last night until Jan. 26 to give time to consider newly discovered evidence of the condemned man's innocence.

Marshal Weston of Bellevue, Iowa, arrested four men believed to have robbed the general store at Cascade.

CRIME'S CHAPTER IS A LONG ONE.

A BULLET SERVED ED LEWIS AS A DIVORCE.

His Wife and He Didn't Get Along Well Together So He Shot Her--Racine Agent Held Up By Masked Men But Lost Little Cash.

CINCINNATI, Jan. 12—Ed Lewis, a carpenter, who has lived unhappily with his wife, yesterday beat her and was arrested. This morning he shot and killed her and then suicided.

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 12—Samuel Wilson was hanged here today. His crime was the murder of Clementine Manning.

ST. LOUIS HAS A TRAGEDY.

Young Man Kills a Woman and Suicides--Both Were From Independence.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 12.—A murder and suicide with mysterious surroundings occurred some time yesterday afternoon at 1412 Olive street. kept by Mrs. E. Smith. One of the victims is a rather pretty young woman about 24 years of age, while the murderer and suicide was a young man apparently 20 years old. At 1 o'clock the young man called and asked for her. Mrs. Smith found the girl was still absent. The man left, and shortly after 6 o'clock a second man, giving the name of Mason, called and asked to see Miss Stevenson. Mrs. Smith showed him upstairs and knocked at the door. Receiving no response, she pushed in the door, struck a match, and saw the two bodies on the floor. On the bed was a 38-caliber revolver containing five empty shells. Among the woman's effects was found a letter dated at Joplin, Mo., signed "Your devoted husband, John T. Stevenson." An order on the Pacific Express company, dated St. Louis, Dec. 22, called on the agent to "deliver all money or packages delivered for John T. Stevenson to my wife, Josie Stevenson," also signed John T. Stevenson. In the man's pockets were found papers identifying him as S. J. Wilsko of Independence, Mo. He also had a letter signed by the woman he shot, telling him of her new address. The note is addressed to "Mr. Mason," the name given by the second caller, who left after the discovery of the tragedy. Mrs. Stevenson and her slayer were evidently both tailors, she having recently been employed by M. Lund, while Wilsko had just reached St. Louis. A bank book showed he had drawn $40 from the First National bank of Independence, Mo., Jan. 8.

ATTEMPTED ROBBERY.

Masked Men at Racine Overpower the Agent, but Get Little Cash.

RACINE, Wis., Jan. 12.—A stranger walked into the Chicago & Northwestern depot and told the night operator, Walter S. Stewart, that a man was lying dead on the track. Stewart started out and at the door was confronted by two masked men with drawn revolvers. They demanded his keys and told him to open the safe. He convinced them he did not know the combination. They took all the money in the cash drawer, his revolver, watch, and other valuables, and then locked Stewart in the baggage room. They then attempted to blow open the safe, but were scared away before their purpose was accomplished.

Boys Imitate Train Robbers.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan. 12.—The north-bound passenger train on the Des Moines & Kansas City railroad was fired into by youthful would-be bandits near Decatur City yesterday afternoon. One bullet just missed the conductor's head. The train was stopped and the passengers secreted their valuables, and as no bandits appeared the conductor and brakeman investigated and arrested the two boys, who were hid in the brush near the track. It is supposed they started to be bandits and their courage failed them at the critical time.

Will Be Lynched if Caught.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Jan. 12.—Frederick Benne was fatally and his wife seriously beaten and their hired man badly injured by four negro burglars last night near Florissant. Benne had drawn $2.000 to buy a small farm. The negroes secured $300 of it. Two hundred farmers are scouring the country for the burglars, who will be lynched if caught.

Koetting's Trial Attracts a Crowd.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Jan. 12.—Banker Koetting's trial on a charge of receiving deposits as cashier of the South Side Savings bank while knowing the bank to be insolvent is attracting much attention. The court-room and hall outside were packed yesterday and it was necessary to establish police regulations. The day was occupied in opening speeches by the district attorney and Koetting's lawyers.

Red Cliff Lands May Be Opened.

ASHLAND, Wis., Jan. 12.—Filers upon Omaha lands were treated to a new surprise yesterday when it became rumored about that Red Cliffe Indian reservation was to be abolished and thrown open to settlement. All those who have not filed on Omaha lands are now changing their applications so as to apply for some of the rich pine lands of Red Cliffe. They stand more chance of obtaining lands there which are said to be very valuable.

MURDERER HART IS TOO SANE TO LIVE.

SELLS HIS FARM FOR $2,500 TO GET CASH.

With the Money He Expects to be Able to Prove that He Was Mentally Irresponsible--Hearing of the Case Is Set For January 22.

ROCKFORD, Jan. 12—After three desperate efforts to end his life Murderer John Hart must soon stand trial. His hearing has been set for January 22. Hart, whose alleged crime was the brutal murder of two sisters, has transferred his share in the big Hart farm to his mother. Mrs. Bridget Hart, and to his brother Henry, the purchase price being $2,500. This money, it is said, he will use in making his defence of his plea of insanity. The prosecuting attorney believes that this plea will fall flat, for the reason that if Hart is sane enough to transact business he is sane enough to know what is right from wrong. The division of the estate is said to have been the real motive for the murder, John wanting more than his share.

GOV. JACKSON SWORN IN.

Iowa's New Executive Takes the Oath of Office.

DES MOINES, Iowa, Jan. 12.—The day for the inauguration of Gov. Frank D. Jackson dawned bright and clear, but a cold wind was blowing. It had first been proposed to make the event a great republican demonstration, but on account of the death of Miss Jessie Boies, daughter of the retiring governor, Mr. Jackson requested that the demonstration be dispensed with. However, the morning trains brought big crowds to see Iowa's youngest governor inducted into office.

The program of exercises was as follows: Music, Iowa State band; invocation, Rev. B. F. W. Crozer; music, Iowa State band; administration of oath of office, Chief Justice Granger; inaugural address, Frank D. Jackson; music, Iowa State band.

After the oath had been administered to Gov. Jackson and Lieutenant-Governor Dungan, the retiring Lieutenant-Governor S. L. Bestow presented Mr. Jackson who delivered his inaugural address.

On the locally important subject of the prohibitory liquor law Governor Jackson said: "A trial of ten years has demonstrated that in many counties it has fully met the expectation of its friends, having successfully driven the saloon system out of existence in those counties. While this is true, there are other localities where open saloons have existed during this period of time in spite of the most determined efforts to close them. In such localities the open saloon exists without restraint or control, a constant menace to the peace and safety of the public. While the present prohibitive principle, which is so satisfactory to many counties and communities of our state, should remain in force, wisdom, justice and the interests of temperance and morality demand that a modification of this law should be made, applicable to those communities where the saloon exists, to the end of reducing the liquor traffic to the minimum."

In closing his address the governor congratulated the people of Iowa on the conditions of plenty and comfort which surround them.

In the evening a public reception was held in the governor's rooms at the capital by Governor Jackson, the lieutenant governor and the speaker of the house.

PREPARE FOR A RAID.

Notorious Gang of Outlaws About to Resume Business.

GUTHRIE, O. T., Jan. 12.—The Dalton gang of outlaws is undoubtedly preparing to make a wholesale raid upon some of the banks of the territory towns or rob some heavily loaded train on the Santa Fe or Rock Island road. Four times within a week they have made a public appearance near towns in the Cherokee strip, only to again disappear for a day and reappear at some other point. They openly raided the postoffice store at Clarkson to secure supplies, and have compelled many farmers to feed them and their horses. There are a dozen or fourteen in the gang, all heavily armed, and as all trains now carry a strong guard and most of the towns have an extra force of officers on guard, a terrible battle may be looked for.

THE NEW JERSEY MUDDLE.

Senate Chamber Again in Possession of the Democrats.

TRENTON, N. J., Jan. 12—The republican senators, after breaking in the door and securing possession of the senate chamber, placed five republican doorkeepers on guard. The latter held the fort until 10 o'clock yesterday morning. A few minutes before that hour democratic Senators Hinchliffe of Passaic and Winton of Bergen, followed by two or three hundred men, approached the chamber. One of the republican doorkeepers opened the doors and the crowd entered. Michael Nathan, the democratic sergeant-at-arms, then ordered the republican doorkeepers out. They walked out quietly. The democrats were thus again in possession of their chamber. There was no excitement whatever.

STATE NEARLY DONE.

Dan Coughlin's Defense Likely to Begin Next Monday.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—It is probable that the state will close its presentation of evidence in the Coughlin case by Saturday noon. While this is the present purpose of Mr. Bottum and Mr. Scanlan, they may not be able to complete the state's case by that time, and it may be necessary to take up a day or so of next week. McLaughlin has not yet been heard from, but he may arrive at any moment. However, the prosecution has not much hope of this. It is not known that he ever received the letter sent him. The defense will make a deperate effort to impeach the testimony of some of the principal witnesses for the state.

The first witness on the stand yesterday was Frank Scanlan, who saw the doctor drive away from his house the night of the murder. Nothing new was elicited. Mrs. Conklin, at whose residence Dr. Cronin lived at the time of the murder, testified at the afternoon session, but her evidence consisted merely of unimportant details.

WON BY SPRINGFIELD.

That City Captures the Permanent Location of the Illinois State Fair.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Jan. 12.—Springfield wins the permanent location of the state fair. Its site, within two miles of the center of the city, not only met fuliy all the requirements of the state board of agriculture, but contained about fifty acres more than the specifications called for. Springfield's competitors were at a disadvantage in offering several sites, most of which were considerably more remote from the business center of the respective cities than the one offered by Springfield. Another consideration which counted substantially in Springfield's favor was the fact that its proposal was the only one which was accompanied by a deed for the property offered.

Schaefer Wins from Slosson.

CHICAGO, Jan. 12.—But a small crowd attended the fourth game of the balk-line tournament. Schaefer and Slosson were the contestants, and Schaefer won by a score of 600 to 530. It was the poorest played game of the tournament and dragged terribly toward the close. The score was:

Schaefer—52, 39, 103, 0, 31, 6, 0, 18, 36, 1, 28, 1, 0, 14, 0, 1, 26, 36, 7, 0, 2, 35, 0, 4, 4, 0, 11, 60, 21, 20, 0, 0, 21, 0, 11, 9, 1, 11. Total, 600.

Average, 13¾.

Slosson and Ives play to-night.

Carter Steps Down.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 12. — Chairman Carter of the national republican committee presented his resignation yesterday as chairman of the executive committee. That body accepted it and chose Joe Manley of Maine to succeed him. The executive committee did not formally decide that a permanent headquarters should be established. It was left for Mr. Manley, after a full view of the situation, to determine whether that step were advisable and, if he so determined, the executive committee is to be called together again to select the place.

McKinley and Hoard Talk to Farmers.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Jan. 12.—The state agricultural convention was addressed yesterday by Gov. McKinley and ex-Gov. Hoard of Wisconsin. Resolutions were adopted favoring the teaching of elementary principles of agriculture in country schools and demanding reforms in taxation and administration.

Ashland Mine to Go Out of Business.

ASHLAND, Wis., Jan. 12.—A special from Ironwood says the Ashland mine will pull up its pumps and quit the business of mining ore. There are also rumors that the Colby mine, which has been pumping water only for the last five months, will also take up its pumps.

First Shut Down in Twenty Years.

CARDINA, R. I., Jan. 12.—The Cardina worsted mills, the only industry of this place, will close indefinitely this week for lack of orders. It is the first shut down in twenty years.

Safe-Blowing in Tazewell County.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Jan. 12.—Burglars blew open the safe in the postoffice last night at Miner, Tazewell county, and secured $250.

MILWAUKEE FIRE COSTS ONE LIFE.

WOMAN EIGHTY YEARS OLD IS SUFFOCATED.

Blaze In the Cream City Hotel Proves Fatal--Davis, West Virginia Swep By Flames and Many Busines Houses Are Destroyed--Fire Department Weak.

MILWAUKEE, Jan 12.—A fire in the Cream City hotel suffocated Mrs Annie Scham aged eighty years All the other people in the house had made their escape before it was known that Mrs. Scham was still in her room. The damage to the building was one-thousand dollars. origin of the fire not known.

DAVIEP, W. Va., Jan 12—Seven stores and dwellings, the Davis opera house and a large stock of lumber and dry goods burned. Flames spread rapidly and the small fire department was powerless.

TRACING THE BANK'S MONEY.

Favored Creditors Said to Have Been Paid After the Concern Closed.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Jan. 12.—The receiver of the Indianapolis national bank, in an answer to the suit of H. P. Wasson, yesterday made public for the first time the condition of the bank on the day it closed its doors. Five minutes before the bank closed on that day Mr. Wasson deposited $1,642.50 in money and $504.14 in checks. He brought suit for the whole amount deposited, alleging that the bank was insolvent at the time the deposit was made and that the identical bank notes and coins deposited constituted a part of the common mass that passed into the hands of the receiver.

In overruling the demurrer of the receiver, Judge Bauer held that if only the identical coins, notes and checks could be traced into the hands of the receiver Mr. Wasson might recover. The receiver, in his answer, says that the moneys and checks deposited by Mr. Wasson can not be traced, for the reason that large sums of money were paid out by the bank after it closed at 3 p. m., July 24; that there was in the bank at the time $23,414.43 and no more. Of this amount, $8,000 was in the possession of the receiving teller. This $8,000 included the deposit that was made by Mr. Wasson five minutes before the bank closed.

It is averred that after the bank closed its doors that day the sum of $11,503.04 was paid out. The friends of President Haughey say there is no truth in the story that he is a wreck physically and will not be able to appear in court Saturday and plead to the charges against him. It is not denied, however, that Mr. Haughey has failed rapidly in the last two months.

Held Hawley for Murder.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Jan. 12.—The coroner's jury last evening completed the examination of Martin Hawley, who is charged with killing his mother. The evidence proves conclusively that he knocked his mother down twice with his fists and then kicked her in the breast, fracturing twelve ribs. The family physician is attempting to prove that the murderer has been insane for a year. Hawley was arrested about six months ago for attempting to kill his wife.

Tramps Rob the Kouts Postoffice.

VALPARAISO, Ind., Jan. 12.—The postoffice at Kouts, this county, was entered by burglars last night and several hundred dollars was taken. It is supposed to be the work of tramps.

LIVER PAD STAMPS WILL SOON BE GONE.

LOCAL COLLECTORS MUST BUY "COLUMBIANS" SOON

After the Present Supply at the Post Office Is Exhausted No More Will Be Received--Dealers Are Laying In Large Stocks for Future Use.

Janesville collectors have no time to lose. After the present stock on hand at the postoffice is closed out, no more Columbia stamps will be sold in the city. In the large cities collectors and dealers are laying in large supplies of the porous plasters with the knowledge that they will become more and more valuable each year. Undoubtedly the government has reaped a rich harvest by the sale of them to persons who will not make the ordinary use of them.

Figures on the subject are hard to get. Most collectors bought the stamps at the postoffice in the ordinary way, so no one could tell whether they were for albums or for business. Some persons living away from the city, however, sent to the postmaster here for them. In the first eleven months of the year 262 orders, amounting to $1.075.91, were received from abroad and 243, amounting to $823.15 from places in the United States. This is, of course, a small proportion of the whole amount which went to collectors. The big dealers at home and abroad would get their supplies through agents here.

Many persons sent orders to friends here, for the stamp clerks have sold numbers of the complete sets of sixteen stamps. The cost of the lot is $16.34, for the denominations include $1, $2, $3, $4 and $5. Some collectors prefer to have cancelled stamps, so they buy complete sets and get Assistant Postmaster Gayler to put the post mark on them. One man mailed a letter weighing less than half an ounce, addressed to himself, which was nearly covered with Columbian stamps. The postal clerks could not imagine why he should waste money in this way until it struck one of them that it was his method of having the stamps cancelled for his collection.

Some people have wondered why five dollar stamps should be issued, for publishers of periodicals pay postage on their matter in bulk. These stamps in large denomination go on foreign letters. The postage on them is five cents a half ounce, and there is no limit to weight. One weighing a pound and sent by registered mail would therefore need to have $1.68 of stamps on it. Some documents and securities sent as first-class mail matter weigh as much as three or four pounds and a five dollar stamp would just fill the bill for them.

"TUXEDO "TOOK WELL LAST NIGHT

Audience of Goodly Proportion Laughed at Hughey Dougherty.

Tuxedo pleased a large Janesville audience last night. The piece has been materially changed and strengthened since last season. The idea upon which this original style of light entertainment is based is ingenious, unique and decidedly clever, as it brings together in one entertainment the best elements of musical farce and that portion of minstrelsy that will never cease to be popular with amusement patrons. The scenes of the play are laid in Tuxedo Park, and the story deals with trials of a representative party of society people from New York, Boston and Chicago, who are engaged in the pleasing, but in their case perplexing, pastime of organizing an amateur entertainment.

Dougherty's Minstrels happen in and a very lively evening results. The songs last night were good, the jokes fresh and many of the specialties excellent.

HUNTING FOR WATERED MILK

Dairy and Food Commissioner Looking Around in Rock County.

For some time past representatives of the State Dairy and Food Commissioner have been in this vicinity and have done a good deal of work in the way of testing milk as it was being taken to the factories. Farmers have been stopped at any point on the road where they might happen to be when the state's agent met them, and asked for a supply of milk to test, and considerable interest has been awakened as to the outcome. Thus far nothing in an official way has come to any of the farmers as to the result of tests, and if they are not in the habit of watering their milk there is little likelihood that anything farther will be heard of it.

CIVIL SERVICE EXAMINATION.

Candidates For Postoffice Jobs Must Hand In Their Papers.

In pursuance of the presidential order of January 5, extending the civil service law to all-free delivery postoffices, the civil service commission at Washington has ordered that an examination be held in this city on Saturday February 10, 1894, commencing at 1:30 p. m. for the grades of clerk and carrier in the city office.

Only citizens of the United States can be examined. The age limitations are as follows: For clerk, not under eighteen years; for carrier, not under twenty-one, not over forty.

No application will be accepted for this examination unless filed with the undersigned, on the proper blank, before six o'clock, Monday January 22, 1894.

The civil service commission takes this opportunity of stating that the examinations are open to all reputable citizens who may desire to enter the postal service without regard to their political affiliations. All such citizens, whether democrats or republicans, or neither, are invited to apply. They shall be examined, graded, and certified with entire impartiality, without regard to their political views, or any consideration save their efficiency. For application blanks, full instructions and information, apply at the postoffice to M. L. PETERSON, Secretary, Board of Examiners.

SHEPP'S VIEWS IN 1200 LOTS.

Plenty of Part 5 to Fill all Demands--Readers are Delighted.

Twelve hundred copies of Part 5 of Shepp's World's Fair Photographed are being handed out over the Gazette counter as fast as an expert can make change. No offer ever made in the city has attracted as much attention as this proposition to give a standard work like Shepp's Views to regular readers. The ten cents barely covers shipping and handling charges, The Gazette's gains being made in the new subscriptions that are attracted. Many who have been buying the paper once or twice a week now have it delivered regularly that they may keep their series of coupons unbroken.

The full page of explanatory matter that accompanies each engraving in the Shepp's series is a valuable feature not possessed by any other work.

REED'S COMEDIANS NEXT WEEK.

Low Priced Attraction at the Myers For Six Nights.

Reed's Comedians will hold the boards at the Myers Grand all next week. In Oshkosh and Fond du Lac the company received good notices, and members of the Tuxedo company told Manager A. C. Jenkins last night that the engagement would be very satisfactory.

"Reed will give you a first class show," said Hughey Dougherty enthusiastically.

Popular prices will prevail, 10, 20 and 30 cents. This is the first attraction at these prices ever played in the house, and there should be a good attendance.

FEW KNEW WHAT DARWIN MEANT.

Thirteen Out of Fifteen Fell Down on An Easy Question.

The Janesville Lime Kiln club has been wrestling with science, and discussing Darwin. The question before the club; whether ten people out of 15 understood the Darwinian theory. Brother Gardner bet Brother Johnson a nickle's worth of last year's crop of peanuts. The question reported was "What is the Darwinian Theory?" Thirteen out of the first fifteen answered that Darwin's theory was: "Man decended from the monkey." The other two answered more intelligently and in keeping with the true meaning.

Stockholders Meeting.

The annual meeting of the stock holders of Oak Hill Cemetery association will be held Monday January 15, 1894, 7:30 p. m., at insurance office of Silas Hayner. VOLNEY ATWOOD, Prest..

"Don't you know, Milly, that it is very rude to turn around to look at a gentleman?" "Mother, I only turned round to see if he turned round to see if I looked at him." "Well, if that's all, that's all right."

TWO CASES OF FEVER IN THE FIFTH WARD.

NEIGHBORS ALARMED BY THE OUTBREAK.

Health Officer Found the Patients In Shocking Condition But Says that Both Will Recover--City's Allowance Tor Such Work Is Far Too Small.

There are two cases of scarlet fever in Con. Cronin's house, near the North western round house, and considerable alarm is manifested by neighbors. The cases were reported to be even worse than the Behling cases. The health officer found the house too filthy for habitation, and called on the poormaster for supplies to renovate the place. The two victims of the disease were covered with dirt, and were very weak. The house was cleansed thoroughly, and the patients will recover. The health officer earned his full salary in the work he performed at this one place As a matter of fact Janesville does not pay the health offiers a large enough salary. The city pays the health officers three hundred and fifty dollars a year. In the Behling case the work of fumigation, etc, that was really essential cost $265 and not a dollar of this was wasted.

FIRE TO RING ITS OWN ALARM.

Janesville Machine Company Puts In an Attachment of Great Value.

The wood, and paint shop of the Janesville Machine Company, as well as the boiler room, coal shed and store rooms, are being supplied with the Grinnell automatic sprinklers for fire protection. In connection with this system a wire will be connected with the fire stations so constructed that whenever one of the sprinklers "lets go" a gong will sound the alarm in fire department headquarters. This will give the alarm much quicker than by turning in the alarm at the box.

ODD FELLOWS TO MAKE MERRY.

Public Installation in the East Side Hall on Saturday.

Janesville Odd Fellows and their families will enjoy a social time on Saturday evening at Odd Fellows hall, North Main street. Wisconsin Lodge No. 14, and America Lodge No. 26, Daughters of Rebekah, will hold a public installation of officers. After this ceremony a banquet will be served by the Rebekahs and the wives of members of No. 14. All Odd Fellows and their families are cordially invited.

AS JERE MURPHY VIEWS IT.

It would be more becoming to Gov. Peck to know less about the constitution of the A. P. A. and more about the constitution of the state of Wisconsin.

It seems like a wilful waste of public money to maintain courts and call witnesses so long as all questions of law and fact are settled by the Milwaukee Journal regardless of either.

* * *

The Chicago Herald appears to have the roster conspiracy case mixed up with the Cronin conspiracy case. General Doe's close connection with the Wisconsin case should be assurance that there has been no danger to life in the business.

* * *

In passing upon the question of the constitutionality of the Wilson bill we trust Senator Vilas will not neglect to consider the "inextricable interwinement" of its provisions for free trade for farmers and wage workers of the north and west with protection for domestic interests of the south and east.

A World's Fair Calendar.

Anyone who has ever seen one of the "Keeping Everlastingly At It" Calendars issued by N. W. Ayer & Son Newspaper Advertising Agents, Philadelphia, is ever afterward very hard to please.

That for 1894 is a rare combination of beauty and utility—large enough to be seen, handsome enough to be admired and sensible enough to be respected. He would indeed be a queer person who would be unwilling to "keep steady company" with it for a year.

We would call this "a World's fair edition" because of its numerous references to that wonderful event. Its ingenious suggestions on this subject will doubtless be helpful to many who visited "the white city."

It is easy to credit the statement that an increasing number of these calendars is sold each year. The price delivered (and well delivered,) post paid to any address is 25 cents—evidently a tariff for protection only, as at this figure there can be no profit in it for the publishers.

Attention Tobacco Growers.

The Rock County Tobacco Growers Association have made ample arrangements at their several association warehouses to handle goods the present season for $1 per hundred. This includes first class work, sizing packages etc., and storage for one year. We have contracted for cases and will furnish patrons good seasoned cases at 65 and 70 cents. Our insurance rates are as low as the lowest. Our facilities for selling both domestic and export goods are as good as the leaf trade affords. We aim to give our patrons the best of satisfaction and believe in liberal advertisement. Your patronage is solicited.

CARE OF THE THROAT CAN'T BE SLIGHTED

CHOKER COLLARS HARMFUL IN GREAT DEGREE.

Air and Freedom Are Necessary to Preserve a Youthful Plumpness and Freshness--Dinner Center Piece that Is Easily Arranged--Magazine Holder Useful and Ornamental.

People who make a study of such important problems are always telling women that the throat is the first part of their bodies to reveal the insidious approach of age. But they don't add that high "choker" collars and the stiff linen in which the "tailor made" young women and the athletic girl delight to bind their necks are age's most potent allies.

The proper way to treat a neck is to give it all the air and freedom possible. Bestow your linen collars and chemisettes upon some one who doesn't want a well preserved throat. Rip every high collar off of every bodice and finish it with a tiny standing ruffle of softest silk if it must have a finishing. Cut your house gowns down in V's in the back and front. Make your ginghams and your muslins with round waists and surplice fronts and trim them with a bit of lace at the throat. Then wash your neck every night with a rough cloth and pure almond meal. Rinse it in hot water and anoint it freely with some emollient. If you can afford it and care about taking your cream in that way, a cream neck bath is excellent.

Another thing which shoemakers and physicians will tell you to do for your complexion is to wear looser shoes for the next five months than you do the rest of the year. The feet seem to feel the general spring languor even more than the rest of the frame does, and whatever gives them the nearest approach to barefoot ease is the best thing for them in summer.

A Dinner Centerpiece.

For a centerpiece on the dinner table nothing is prettier than a jardiniere of silver placed on a fresh linen center worked in a flower to correspond with the contents of the jardiniere, or a glass lake, which can be purchased for a couple of dollars, may be used under it, surrounded with tiny glass troughs which are sold for 40 cents apiece, placed about the edge of the lake and filled with natural flowers.

Useful For Magazines.

Here is a magazine holder which will be an ornament to the sitting room table of the summer home. Take two pieces of cardboard a little larger than The Century or Harper's, cover them with a thin layer of cotton batting and then with pale green silk. Before the edges of the silk are sewed together four pieces of rather broad elastic should be sewed through the cotton batting and cardboard. Then the edges of the silk are overcast. The elastic should be left about 6 inches long and then fastened to the four corners of the other silk covered piece of cardboard. Over the pale green silk of the top piece of cardboard paint a cluster of white and pink clover blossoms, and in silver letters with a drawing pen write "For Idle Hours." The magazines are placed between the two pieces of cardboard, and as the elastic stretches it will hold a number of them.

To Tell Good Baking Powder.

Put one teaspoonful of the powder in a small tin cup, add three teaspoonfuls of water, and let it boil. Then pour into a glass. If the baking powder is pure, there will be a faint, pleasant odor, and the glass will be filled with a foamy mass that will not drip when turned upside down. Ammonia can be detected by the smell, and terra alba and kindred materials by a sticky or sloppy mixture.

Quickest Route to California.

If you desire to attend the Midwinter fair at San Francisco or any part of California, and wish to make the trip in the quickest and most comfortable manner, be sure that your ticket reads via the Chicago & Northwestern, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific R'ys. Palace Drawing Room Sleeping Cars leave Chicago daily and run through to San Francisco via Council Bluffs, Omaha and Ogden without change, in three and one half days all meals en route being served in dining cars. Tourist sleeping cars, offering an exceptionally favorable opportunity for making the trip in a most comfortable and economical manner, are also run, and completely equipped berths can be procured by passengers holding either first or second class tickets, at a cost of only $4 per berth from Chicago (or $3 per berth from Council Bluffs or Omaha) to San Francisco and other California points. Variable route excursion tickets and first and second class one-way tickets are now on sale via the Northwestern line at extremely low rates. For tickets and full information apply to agents Chicago & Northwestern railway.

shot at a time, and a cartridge cannot be discharged without the trigger being pulled, but by a simple clutch at the side of the machine the firing mechanism may be thrown in or out of gear instantly, and the gunner can throw a continuous stream of bullets or fire shots singly at the rate of 400 a minute. It is possible to discharge all of the shots at each turn of the crank, or 30 shots a second, which is at the rate of 1,800 a minute. One man may aim and fire the gun.

Novel Building at the California Fair.

One of the novelties at the California Midwinter exposition is the Santa Barbara county pyramid. It is 68 feet square at the base and 75 feet in height and is lighted by windows, as the ancient pyramids were not. The front is a reproduction of an old tomb at Luxor, with massive square pillars supporting the winged portal or propylon, which is covered with sculpture in bas-relief. Three typical Egyptian statues surmount the portal—seated figures, with the crossed hands and quaint headdress seen in the statues of the Rameses in the Memnonium. In the center of the ground floor is the olive oil obelisk which was in the California building at Chicago, and surrounding this at a height of 20 feet is a hanging gallery. Around the sides is hung the Santa Barbara art exhibit.

California's Mining Exhibit.

nia's exhibit at Chicago. Among the exhibits is the typical mining camp of the days of 1849. In the center of the camp is a street 450 feet long, and on either side the old dilapidated shanties that did service in the days of gold as hotels, saloons, gambling houses, theaters and newspaper offices. Some of the houses in the camp are the actual cabins of men who made fabulous fortunes in the mines. The huts of Senators Perkins and Jones, John Mackay and others are set up just as they were when the millionaire miners left them.

For Preserving Pictures.

A sort of antidecay apparatus has been invented for preserving pictures. It is a glass tray with solid back, and the picture is put inside and hermetically sealed. The air is then exhausted with an airpump, with the result that in this vacuum the paint will preserve its pristine freshness pretty well forever, unless the thing leaks.—Chicago News.

STRICKEN DEAD.

TRUSTWORTHY STATEMENTS.

A recent New York dispatch reads:

"James C. H——, a fine looking and apparently healthy man, was observed to stagger while walking on Fifth Avenue this afternoon, and after taking one or two uncertain steps fell to the sidewalk. When picked up he was dead. A physician examined the body, and pronounced heart disease the cause of death. A peculiarly sad feature of the case is that Mr. H—— was on his way to Maine, to settle in the home of his boyhood. He had passed the previous ten years in the western mining country, and had amassed a fortune. If YOU have any of the symptoms given in the following testimonials you should lose no time in seeking relief.

From John L. Roberts, Slatington, Pa.: "I have suffered with palpitation, irregular pulse, fainting and smothering spells, pain in shoulders, side, and arms for over forty years. For twelve years have been treated without avail by prominent physicians in my neighborhood and in New York. Growing constantly worse, smothering spells followed one another, so my life was often in danger and I needed constant care. As my son had been cured by Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure, he sent me three bottles. The first dose gave me instant relief. Before using the last bottle I was completely cured. Although seventy-five years old I feel twenty years younger. I claim my cure to be almost a miracle."

Here is a letter from Mrs. John Kolges, of Cleveland, O.: "I had been troubled with my heart and stomach for years, but for sixteen months had been confined to my bed. I had four of the best doctors in the city, but none of them could benefit the weakness of my heart. I also had dropsy and rheumatism. I never took medicine that relieved me at once as Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure does. I am much stronger. My appetite is splendid. I gain strength with every dose. I have gained more in six weeks from your treatment than in sixteen months from all the doctors."

"Dr. Miles' New Cure for the Heart is sold on a positive guarantee by all druggists. It is safe, effective, agreeable, and does cure." Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind.

G.A.R. NOTICE

We take this opportunity of informing our subscribers that the new Commissioner of Pensions has been appointed. He is an old soldier, and we believe that soldiers and their heirs will receive justice at his hands. We do not anticipate that there will be any radical changes in the administration of pension affasrs under the new regime.

We would advise, however, that U S. soldiers, sailers, and their heirs, take steps to make application at once, if they have not already done so, in order to secure the benefit of the early filling of their claims in case there should be any future pension legislation. Such legislation is seldom retrospecive. Therefore it is of great import that applications be filed in the department at the earliest possible time.

If U. S. Soldiers, or their widowed children, or parents desire informotion in regard to pension matters, that should write to the Press Claims Company at Washington, D. C., and they will prepare and send the necessary application, if they find them entitled under the numerous laws enacted for their benefit. Address;

Press Claims Company,

THIS DAY IN HISTORY.

1519—Maximilian I, emperor of Germany, died.
1583—The bloody Duke of Alva died in Lisbon, aged about 99; while ruler of The Netherlands he put some 18,000 "heretics" to death.
1737—John Hancock, statesman and "signer," born in Quincy, Mass.; died 1793.
1871—Dean Henry Alvord, English author of note, died; born 1810.
1875—Young-Tchi, emperor of China, died, aged 19.
1891—Baron Georges Eugenie Haussman, famous engineer, died in Paris.

CLEVELAND'S DUPLICITY.

Mr. Cleveland's last letter to President Dole is in ghastly contrast to his first. The first letter, written after all the facts in the case were at hand, abounded in assurances of good will. And yet we find this same Mr. Cleveland addressing this same Mr. Dole as the head of a treasonable organization, supported only by force and fraud, against the will of the Hawaiian people. What, then, is his "Great and Good Friend" but a vulgar conspirator deserving of summary punishment? And yet it was this same conspirator who was the writer's "Great and Good Friend," to whom he hoped that Mr. Willis might "render himself acceptable," and whom he piously prayed God to "have in his wise keeping." There was never a more sickening farce than this. Mr. Cleveland could not even gloss over his clumsy and deliberate treacher with that fine varnish of courtesy and pretense that has been codsidered a prerogative of diplomacy. The Hawaiian policy of the adminsstration is both a blunder and a crime.

NO REASON FOR REGRET.

The prompt conviction and sentence to death of the French anarchist, Vaillant, who threw the bomb from the chamber of deputies, is an illustration of the sure and speedy course of justice in other countries which we sometimes have reason to envy. It is only the celerity with which this fiend was doomed to execution, however, that is notable. There is no civilized country on the face of the globe where his ultimate fate would have been less certain. For such a deed as his there is no extenuation. No circumstance could possibly justify a thought of lenience. There cannot follow his sentence even one of the regrets, common to all humanity, with which we learn that capital sentence has been passed upon the worst malefactor. Removed by the heinousness of his crime from the reach of human feeling or the touch of human kinship, he will go to his death as the wild beast to the slaughter, and neither for him or any of his kind will there or should there be any pity.

Speaker Crisp has it in his power to always, or nearly always, have a quorum in the house. All he needs is to forget some of the silly things said by him and his party associates during the fifty-first congress and to count a quorum by including those present and not voting.

There is a slight discrepancy between the republicans and the W. C. T. U. The former say that the suffering and destitution throughout the country is entirely chargeable to the democratic party, and the latter that nine-tenths of it can be traced to whisky.

There are said to be fifteen democrats in the senate and fifty-seven in the house who openly oppose an income tax. The administration is also opposed to it. How well these democrats do live up to their national characteristics—disagreements.

Mr. Blount would doubtless willingly pay a big price for a renewal of his paramount power so as to include the tongues of the members of the senate committee on foreign relations who will question him about his Hawaiian trip.

The fatal shooting of a tramp who asked for bread at a Georgia house, may result in lessening the number of tramp beggars in that state, but the brutality of the remedy will prevent its general adoption.

It may be cruel to say it, but an investigation will show that the shouter for an income tax is invariably either unable or unwilling to earn an income worthy of being considered such.

It casts no aspersion on the courage of a democratic congressmen for him to show fear of the Cleveland tariff bill. Seven-tenths of the country is afraid of it.

Governor Pennoyer should not forget that one of the axioms of politics, is "He who has to explain is on the down grade."

There are a large number of democrats who are valiant tariff smashers so long as the smashing is done away from their homes.

There is evidently something wrong with the architecture of a tariff for revenue only which is so constructed that it won't yield any revenue to speak of.

WISDOM THAT CAME TOO LATE.

"Will you take this woman for your lawful, wedded wife? (After a pause) Why don't you answer?"

"Well, judge, that question requires some serious thinking."—Fliegende Blaetter.

In a New York Boarding House.

New Boarder—Is there a dog about this establishment?

Waiter—Yes, sah, de landlady's son has a bulldog in de cellar.

New Boarder—Can he bite?

Waiter—Yes, indeedy, he am de mos' wishus bog eber I seed.

New Boarder—Then be kind enough to give him this chicken with my compliments. I'd like to believe there is something that can bite it.—Texas Siftings.

That's What She Meant.

It had been over four months since they were engaged, and as they read the evening paper together he said:

"See, my dear, only twenty dollars for a suit!"

"Is it a wedding suit?" she asked, sweetly.

"No, a business suit."

"Well, I meant business," she answered.—Life.

The Best Not Too Good for Him.

The Lady—What are you carrying so carefully, Col. Blood?

The Colonel—Whisky, ma'am; old Rooster whisky.

The Lady—Oh, that's bad, colonel! Very bad!

The Colonel—I shall be pleased to learn the brand you recommend, ma'am.—N. Y. Sun.

He, Too, Was Slippery.

"I swear by those tall elms in yonder park"—he commenced, but she interrupted him.

"Swear not by them," she said imploringly.

"Why not?"

"Because those trees are slippery elms," she said simply.—Texas Siftings.

Rob Earned It, No Doubt.

Aunt Jane—Rob, dear, won't you try to be a real good boy to-day?

Rob—I will, aunty, for a quarter.

Aunt Jane—Why, Rob! you wish pay for being good?

Rob—Well, aunty dear, you wouldn't have me good for nothing, would you?—Harper's Young People.

A Delicate Attention.

Vivian (of certain years) — You treated me as if I were an old maid today when Mr. Spooners was calling.

Guinevere — Nonsense, my dear. Why, he and I had been talking about old people and we changed the subject the minute you came in the room. —Chicago Record.

The Cause of It.

"Cholly Lightpate seems to be a modest fellow. See how the blood rushes to his face when a young lady speaks to him."

"That isn't a sign of modesty. It's only an effort of nature to fill a vacuum."—Chicago Tribune.

Barometric Indications.

Senior Partner—One thing I like about our new clerk is that he is reliable. You can always tell what he is going to do next.

Junior Partner—And what is that?

Senior Partner—Nothing.—Truth.

Scalping is a practice not peculiar to the American aborigines. In Southall's "Recent Origin of Man" he quotes from Herodotus to show that the Scythians scalped their fallen enemies, and, in modern times, the scalping knife is used by the wild tribes of Northeastern Bengal.

Careful weighing shows that an ordinary bee, not loaded, weighs one five-thousandth part of a pound, so that it takes 5,000 bees, not loaded, to make a pound. But the loaded bee, when he comes in fresh from the fields and the flowers loaded with honey or bee bread, weighs nearly three times more, that is to say, he carries nearly twice his own weight. Of loaded bees there are only about 1,300 in the pound.

Lindsay's Election Formally Declared.

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 11.—The general assembly met in joint session yesterday and formally declared William Lindsay elected United States senator.

The usual treatment of catarrh is very unsatisfactory, as thousands can testify. Proper local treatment is positively necessary to success, but many, if not most, of the remedies in general use afford but temporary relief. A cure certainly cannot be expected from snuffs, powders, douches and washes. Ely's Cream Balm, which is so highly commended, is a remedy which combines the important requisites of quick action, specific curative power, with perfect safety and pleasantness to the patient. All druggists sell it.

A Perfect Cure

Mr. Joel H. Austin is a man very highly esteemed by all who know him. He is now pension attorney at Goshen, Ind., and was for 20 years a Baptist missionary minister. He says: "I suffered years with swelling of my limbs, at times very painful, especially at night. I could not sleep. I have taken six bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and for weeks there has not been any swelling of my feet and limbs. I have also suffered for years with catarrh in the head, which was working down into my lungs. Since trying Hood's Sarsaparilla the pain in my head has stopped and I am positive of a perfect cure." MEDICAL MEN TELL WHAT THEY FOUND.

EXPERTS NOW TESTIFYING IN THE ASHTON CASE.

Dr. Lord Says Suffocation Was the Cause of Mrs. Stone's Death While Dr. McManus Gives no Positive Opinion on that Point--Many Physicians Are Present.

Dr. James Lord looked upon a full house when he told, this morning, how he and Dr. McManus opened the post mortem on the body of Mrs. Stone.

Twelve physicians listened with interest, while a room full of other spectators shifted uneasily in their seats.

The question of where the "weakest point of the sternum" was, and whether "the ossification of a cartilage made the cartelage as strong as a matured bone";"how far it was from the clavicular notch to the gladiolus?" or whether or not the lungs were "ballooning,"did not make a sensation in court.

MRS. DANIEL STONE AND ALTA CADY.
[From an old photograph]

In fact people looked as if they were assuming to know all about what was being elicited from the witness when in fact to use one of Mr. Hyzer's expressions "they were traveling in unexplored countries."

Injuries Seen by Dr. Lord.

Dr. Lord, who is from Edgerton, helped to make the first post mortem. On Mrs. Stone's lower lip and on the neck above the clavicle there were slight demarkations he said. These extended transversely across the neck and were one and a half or two inches long, more visible in the center than at the edges and about one inch wide. He corroborated the statements of others in regard to the position of the false teeth. Dr. McManus, Dr. Lord said, made a tranverse incision and opened up the thorax and abdominal cavity. They made a two inch incision in the lobe of the left lung and also into the heart. The incision in the lung did not result in the finding of water, froth or blood. The right side of the heart was filled with venous blood. The stomach contained three or four ounces of fluid matter and the kidneys intestines and liver were all slightly congested.

"From the examination you made and the appearances you found," said Mr. Wheeler "What in your opinion, was the cause of death?"

"I think she died of suffocation or asphyxia."

Cross examination developed the fact that Mrs. Stone was a very muscular woman and was not burdened with superfluous flesh. There were no evidence of violence apparent on the surface of the body. Mr. Hyzer put Dr. Lord through a rigid cross examination that showed that the attorney was well posted on anatomy and physiology.

Dr. McManus Gave no Opinion.

Dr. McManus followed Dr. Lord and told how they found the body and in what position it was located upon the floor. There was no froth or bloody mucous oozing from the mouth. They found two abrasions on the fingers of the hand but the witness did not notice any other marks. The mouth was closed, he said, and the eyes partly closed; the pupils being two-thirds dilated. His story of the conditions found corresponded with that of Dr. Lord. As to the cause of death the witness had not formed a positive opinion.

Dr. McManus was not permitted to tell whether or not he had formed an opinion as to whether death was the result of drowning. To make his evidence on that point competent he would have had to show that he had seen a post mortem of the body of a drowned person, which operation he said he had not seen. Mr. Hyzer's cross examination followed and included the comparison of testimony Dr. Mc Manus had just given with what he gave before the coroners inquest. There were no indications of violence that the witness noticed, He had attended a consultation of surgical witnesses on the case but did not understand that the exact location of the incision made was of any importance in this case.

Skeleton Hung In The Court Room.

Attorney Hyzer used his own skeleton to demonstrate on this morning. It was not his "really ownest own" skeleton; that was protected by a liberal amount of adipose tissue; but upon a bran new frame work of a dead French frog eater which was purchased for the attorney by Dr. Menzies. The skeleton was an imported one and cost forty dollars. It was absolutely perfect, every tooth and bone being intact. What Mr. Hyzer will do with "his friend," as he calls the skeleton after the trial is somewhat of a mystery. Its a pretty white skeleton but it wouldn't look well in a parlor, not even if it were painted pale pink.

Court Reporter Kavalege was not confused by the medical and anatomical terms and took them down as easily as he would the plainest kind of English. Mr. Hyzer devoted some time this morning to Dr. Lord's examination and went into the injuries found and the exact location of fractures in minute detail.

The physicians who will testify in the case and Drs. Faville and Hecktoen, of Chicago; Drs. Kempster and Fox, of Milwaukee; Dr. Phil Fox of Madison; Drs. Lord and McMannus of Edgerton, and Drs. Palmer, Mills, Woods, Whiting, Sutherland and Barrows of this city. Drs. Gibson, Clark, Menzies and Judd were also in the court room but were not witnesses.

Yesterday the judge took occasion to complain because there were not officers enough in the court. His directions had an effect for this morning beside Deputy Nelson, Sheriff Bear and Under Sheriff Cutts were both present.

LIABLE FOR BUYING GREEN GOODS

People Who Endeavor to Secure Bogus Money Are Liable to Heavy Fines

About every three weeks this city is flooded with letters from green goods men, supposed to be located in New York city. They offer to furnish several thousand dollars of bogus money, for a few dollars genuine greenbacks. Occasionally a fish is caught and fleeced. It is known that a great many people in this city have answered the letters, whether for fun or because they expect to profit is a question. This is a criminal act and those who have foolishly answered the letters of these sharks, are liable to get into trouble. A decision by the government at Washington that persons ordering "green goods" are liable to arrest and imprisonment may result sensationally. Inquiry developed the fact that in a list of 1,800 names in Milwaukee in the possession of the office are included a great number of those of prominent men. It was also stated that letters applying for bogus money have been written by at least one ex-congressman, one candidate for governor, and many federal and civic officials and are in the hands of the authorities.

OVERCOAT PAID HIS BOARD BILL

Billy Eagan and His Wardrobe Moved Once Too Often.

Billy Eagan, otherwise known as W. L. Howell, is without an overcoat.

Eagan has changed his boarding place quite frequently of late.

He has moved from one boarding place to another, changing his name at each move.

Boarding house keepers finally saw through his game, and this morning Billy fell into the hands of Chief of Police Acheson, and to save going to jail because of a three dollar board bill, he left his overcoat. Other boarding house men are looking for him, but the supply of overcoats has given out.

SOMETHING FOR SUPPER TIME.

Graves Land Company Formed.

The C. S. Graves Land Company was organized yesterday with these officers:

Vice President—Dr. G. W. Chittenden.

Secretary and Treasurer—Irwin G. Boynton.

The office will be with C. S. Graves & Co., Insurance Agents.

Herman Clauson.

Herman Clauson died suddenly at his home in New York Saturday evening, December 18. He had been in usual health until within a few hours of his death, which was caused by the rupture of a blood vessel. Mr. Clauson was sixty-two years old. He was a resident of Rock county for many years, living on Rock Prairie. A man of generous impulses and noted for integrity, he enjoyed the confidence of all who knew him. Since moving to New York some eight years ago, he has frequently visited his old home, coming here from the World's Fair in October on his last visit. A wife and seven children mourn the loss of a loving husband and father. Mr. Clauson's funeral was held in New York on Tuesday, December 23.

New Flat Block Planned.

David Jeffris has plans prepared for a large brick building which he proposes to erect the coming season on the corner of High and Dodge streets, just south of the Grand hotel. The building will front on both Dodge and High streets, and red brick will be used, he having contracted with Duke & Sons for the brick. The building will be wholly occupied by flats.

ROCK'S $300 SPENT FOR MERE BAUBLES.

BOARD QUESTIONS WORLD'S FAIR COMMITTEE.

Wisconsin's Display at the Fair Brought a Blush to the Cheek, Supervisor W. A. Mayhew Declares--Records In the Register of Deeds Office to be Rewritten.

A big darning needle was stuck into the state World's Fair commission by Supervisor W. A. Mayhew, of Clinton. The board were trying to find out what became of the $300 they appropriated to make a Rock county exhibit. It was reported that a flag staff, a flag and a bust of Grover Cleveland accounted for most of that sum.

"None of those things are products of Rock county to my notion," said Mr. Mayhew.

A majority report was adopted, accepting the committee's statement. Mr. Mayhew was on his feet with a minority report declaring the $300 should have been spent in showing up Rock county's industries and products. It recited that the county commission had been overridden and hampered, and that neither the county nor the state was adequately represented.

"The display of Wisconsin's resources," said the resolution, "was such as to bring a blush of remorse and shame to the cheek of every citizen."

Two appropriations were made by the board for the benefit of the county offices. It was provided that Judge Sale have $100 to provide for extra clerk hire and that such of the records in the register of deeds office as were badly worn be recopied at once.

Supervisor C. C. McLans' resolution that the Barkers be permitted to keep the eight acres of the new county farm on which their stone house and barns stand, and that the county receive $500 and the Jule Barker buildings in exchange was voted down. Supervisor Mayhew's resolution was adopted providing that there be no exchange and that the Barkers cause the Janesville grange hall to be moved before any payment is made. Years ago the Barkers gave a long time lease to Janesville grange of the half acre where the grange hall stands and they are anxious to retain this piece of property that the lease may remain good.

DOCTORS RECOGNIZE HIS SKILL.

Janesville's Catarrh Specialist Wins High Praise for His Skill.

That judicious advertising pays in dull times has been fully demonstrated by Dr. H. A. McChesney. His first announcement appeared in Janesville papers six weeks ago and today he is enjoying a practice that keeps him busy from morning till night. The doctor is not only a thorough advertiser but he also thoroughly understands his specialty.

The standing he has gained among members of his profession is shown by the fact that the wife of a well-known Rock county physician is one of his many patients. The lady has been troubled with deafness for years and her husband while a thorough practitioner believed that a specialist who makes a study of one class of diseases is more competent to treat them than the man who devotes his time and energies to general practice.

Dr. H. A. McChesney successfully treats catarrh and diseases of the eye ear, nose, throat and lungs. He provides daily treatment at his office and all medicine without extra charge. Consultation and examination free. His office parlors are in the Wilcox block, East Milwaukee street.

Only Five More Days.

Rosenfield's offer of $1,000 has made the people of Janesville flock to his store and carry away the plums. This sale is for five more days closing on the night of January 16, not one day more or less. We do as we advertise during the time specified. We agree to give $1,000 deposited in the Rock County National Bank to any person, male or female, who will purchase an overcoat for less money than the ones advertised by us in the Daily Gazette a few days ago. After the 16th we ignore the offer, as we claim we are selling these goods or any overcoat in the house at 20 to 25 per cent less than cost. It looks unreasonable to make these offers and we will admit business would not be profitable to any merchant continuing these offers any length of time, but we wanted to test the people and see if business could not be forced in these hard times, and we are happy to say it has been successful in disposing of our overcoat stock, but a financial loss to us. There are still a few sizes left. Come and carry away gold dollars for fifty cents. Overcoats for $2.50, $3.50, $5 and $7.50, and the finest in the house for $10 and $12. Rosenfeld on the bridge has no old stock to offer, but all new goods, this year's makes at less than cost as advertised. Call and inspect these goods and see if you can relieve Rosenfeld of the $1,000 deposited with the bank and offered to you for that purpose.

Selling Out at Cost.

Fifteen thousand dollars worth of new and desirable dry goods, notions, furnishing goods and carpets to be closed out at cost. This stock must be sold by March 10th, as the lease expires on this date. This is no advertising scheme but a bona fide closing out sale. We leave Janesville after the expiration of our lease. Our prices for the next sixty days will prove this assertion. Yours respectfully, The Peoples Dry Goods Store.

CHARITY BALL LIST TO BE PRINTED

Names of All Who Have Bought Tickets Will Appear Saturday.

Tickets for the Charity ball are selling much better than was expected. So many canvassers are out, however, that it is difficult for them to keep track of all who have contributed to the good cause and many business men have been solicited twice or three times. Tomorrow night, therefore, The Gazette will print a complete list of all who have bought tickets. This will show who have lent a helping hand to Janesville's admirable public institution and will also simplify the work of the canvassers on Monday. Every lady who is selling tickets will leave her full list of sales at A. F. Hall & Co's. before noon tomorrow. Lists should be in as early as 11 o'clock to insure alphabetical arrangement.

MY MOTHER'S MEMORY.

There is one bright star in heaven
Ever shining in my night.
God to me one guide has given,
Like the sailor's beacon light.

Set on every shoal and danger,
Sending out its warning ray
To the home bound weary stranger
Looking for the landlocked bay.

In my farthest, wildest wanderings
I have turned me to that love,
As a diver 'neath the water
Turns to watch the light above.

A BIG RUNAWAY.

When Tom Raffles took the queen's shilling at St. George's barracks in Trafalgar square and found nimself duly enlisted for Indian service, he believed that his career was made.

He pictured the day when he would return to his native Norfolk village wearing an officer's uniform and the Victoria cross. This was a foolish dream, but his 29 years had been spent entirely in the country.

Tom was a genial fellow, with many good traits, and the blind bravery of a Ghazi fanatic. Under different circumstances all that was best in him might have come to the front. But he went to India in a time of peace. He fell among bad companions and became addicted to drinking, gambling and a host of minor evils. His popularity increased among the men in proportion to his bad record among the officers.

At the end of a year Tom Raffles was considered the worst scapegrace in the regiment—in all India, some did not scruple to say. Half his time was spent in the guardhouse or doing extra duty. More than once he tried to reform, but failed. Then he became reckless and took life on the fatalist theory.

In three years he served at as many different military stations. Then the heavy battery—for Tom was a gunner—was transferred to Lahore, away up in the Punjab.

The officer under whose command the battery now came was Colonel Stratford, a rigid martinet, but withal a just man. His affections were centered on his 17-year-old son Bertie, who had recently come out from England. Bertie was as handsome and plucky a lad as one could wish to see. He did pretty much as he chose and was idolized by officers and men alike.

Bertie immediately struck up an acquaintance with Tom Raffles, and it speedily ripened to fast friendship. Both hailed from Norfolkshire, and they had many a reminiscent chat about sailing and fishing on the famous Broads.

Raffles believed that Bertie was ignorant of his bad reputation, so he behaved himself admirably for a whole month. The colonel was secretly pleased. He sometimes allowed Bertie to ride on Raffles' gun carriage behind the two elephants.

But evil days were coming. Bertie went north to Rawal Pindi on a visit, and the next day it was reported officially that the Black mountain tribes were not going to fight.

This double blow was too much for Raffles. In a freak of madness, induced by intoxication, he surreptitiously borrowed an officer's uniform and horse one dark night and rode out to the cantonments.

Two days later a squad of cavalry found him at the palace of the rajah of Multon. He had just dined with the native prince and was expatiating on the merits of his host's costly cigars and wine.

This meant court martial, and Raffles resigned himself to the inevitable during the week that he lay in a dark cell.

Then it chanced that the governor general and his staff come north on a tour of inspection. A grand review and maneuvers were ordered at Lahore cantonments.

Colonel Stratford was in a quandary. He had no gunner whom he could trust to fill Raffles' place on so important an occasion. Raffles had even more control over the two elephants than their native drivers. Sultan, the leader, was greatly attached to him. So, rather than run the risk of spoiling the review, the colonel decided to establish a military precedent by granting Raffles a short leave of absence from the guardhouse.

At sunrise on the appointed day the plain before the cantonments was a scene of martial glory. Bodies of cavalry and infantry moved to and fro amid a sparkle of arms and equipments. The heavy battery came last—six polished guns, mounted by six proud artillerymen. Each gun carriage was drawn by two burly elephants, and on top of each elephant was a turbaned Hindoo, with a steel prod in his hand.

At last the governor general and staff arrived from Labore, and the ceremonies began. A certain order was given to the heavy battery. As they fell into motion Bertie Stratford leaped upon Raffles' gun carriage.

Raffles wished that he could sink out of sight. His face turned red and purple. "I—I thought you were at Rawal Pindi," he stammered. "I came back last night," replied Bertie. "I say, Raffles, I'm awfully sorry for you. Whatever possessed you to"——

"I'm afraid you'll get in trouble for this," interrupted Raffles, pretending not to understand. "The colonel will be furious to see an outsider on a gun carriage at such a time. Why, we're right in the middle of the review."

"He don't see me yet," said Bertie. "He's too much taken with his lordship. Anyway I can't jump off now."

This was true, since the battery was trundling along at a rapid gait. Raffles accepted the situation without further comment.

The battery was performing a circular movement which was to bring it in triumph past the governor general and staff. It was now on the opposite side of the circle and close to the tracks of the Peninsular railway.

Just as the leading gun carriage veered off to left, the fast express train from Peshawn came dashing along with a loud jingle of bells and hissing of steam.

It was a most unfortunate encounter. Of the whole 12 elephants but two were unaccustomed to the railway. Sultan and Nabob, who drew Raffles' gun carriage, both hated and feared the steam cars. They reared and plunged and trumpeted shrilly. Then, mad with terror and deaf to the exhortations and prodding of the native mahouts, they broke out of line and dashed up a rocky hillside, straight away from the reviewing staff and the rest of the force.

The disaster was instantly observed. There was no lack of discipline. The battery halted, and its commanding officer spurred after the fugitives on horseback. Then, by special order, a troop of cavalry clattered over the plain. The ambulance corps wisely followed.

"This is serious, Stratford," said the governor general. "I know what mad elephants are. The brutes will likely plunge over yonder bluff." Peering through his fieldglasses, he added, "There is some one on the carriage beside the gunner."

The colonel took the glasses with a trembling hand. "It is Bertie," he gasped, and digging the spurs into his horse he was off like a whirlwind.

Meanwhile the huge, panic stricken elephants had actually gained on their pursuers as they strode recklessly up the hill, over rocks, bushes and everything that came in their way. Raffles realized the danger. He had but one thought—how to save Bertie.

The lad's first impulse was to jump, but Raffles caught and held him. "You'll break your neck if you try that," he cried. "Trust to me."

Side by side they clung to the narrow seat. It was a miracle that they were not pitched off. Finding they could do nothing with the maddened brutes, both drivers jumped at the same instant. One poor fellow struck head first on a rock and never moved. The other landed in some bushes, but he was not far enough out of the way. He uttered a piercing scream as the heavy wheels rolled over his leg.

Bertie shivered and clung tighter to his companion. The elephants dashed on faster than ever. Just ahead was the top of the hill. The other side dropped down at a frightful angle for several hundred feet. It sickened Raffles to think of what would happen when the maddened brutes should reach the verge. In vain he shouted to Sultan. He looked back at the pursuing horsemen. No hope of aid there.

Then Tom remembered that a road led along the brow of the hill and finally turned down to the River Ravi at a point where the slope was not so precipitous. Like a flash he formed a desperate resolve.

"Hold tight, my lad," he said. "I'm going to leave you. It it comes to the worst, jump off before we go over the bluff. Do you understand?"

Bertie nodded. There was a grim and plucky expression on his pallid face.

The next instant an agile spring landed Raffles on Nabob's back. By clinging to the stout harness he worked his way forward. A second spring carried him over the gap between the two elephants, and he was quickly perched on Sultan's neck.

Fortunately, the mahout had left the prod sticking in the harness. With this Raffles belabored the unruly brute and strove to turn him to one side. He stormed and threatened and called him by name. For a minute of keen suspense the issue trembled in the balance. Then, when the dizzy precipice was only a few yards distant, Sultan obeyed the prod and swung to the left into the road. Raffles waved his hand at Bertie.

"Stick tight, lad," he shouted.

But the danger was not yet over, nor had the elephants recovered from their fright. As madly as ever they dashed along the rough road, at times swinging perilously near to the outer verge. In vain Raffles coaxed and threatened and plied the prod.

Of their own accord the brutes took the turn toward the river and swept the heavy gun carriage down the hill at a frightful speed. Bertie had all he could do to keep his seat.

When the bottom of the hill was reached, Raffles vainly tried to turn the elephants aside. They rushed madly forward and clattered out on the pontoon bridge which spanned the river. In midstream the frail structure gave way, and elephants and gun went through with a tremendous splash.

A plank struck Bertie on the head with such force as to stun him. He floundered helplessly alongside the struggling elephants, who were submerged to their necks. From this place of peril he was rescued by Raffles, who caught his collar and swam with him for shore. The swift current bore them down some distance, and when Raffles finally landed with his precious charge he was well nigh exhausted.

A score of horsemen were quickly on the spot—among them Colonel Stratford, who had been a witness of the whole affair. As he clasped Bertie in his arms he looked at Raffles, and that look was a source of consolation in the gloomy days that followed.

Of course the review was spoiled, for it took the rest of the day to get the elephants and the gun out of the river.

That night, and for several succeeding nights, Raffles slept in his old cell. Then, instead of appearing before a court martial, he was reprimanded and discharged.

He afterward had a private interview with the colonel, and for a whole year he was the best behaved soldier in the cantonments.

Then the savages of the Chataquay hills revolted, and Raffles went eagerly off to war. It was a little bit of a war, but it was desperate enough for him to earn a corporal's stripes and the Victoria cross, which had been the ambition of his life.

Raffles attributes his good fortune to Bertie, and he is not far wrong.—William Murray Graydon.

The Tallest of All Animals.

There are a few groups of living large mammals whose existing members appear never to have been surpassed in size by their fossil relatives. Foremost among these are the whales, which now appear to include the largest members of the order which have ever existed. The so called white, or square mouthed, rhinoceros of South Africa seems also to be fully equal in size to any of its extinct ancestors, and the same is certainly true of the giraffe, which may even exceed all its predecessors in this respect. Whether the fossil giraffes were or were not the equals in height of the largest individuals of the living species, there is no question but that the latter is by far the tallest of all living mammals, and that it was only rivaled in this respect among the extinct forms by its aforesaid ancestors. Moreover, if we exclude creatures like some of the gigantic dinosaurian reptiles of the secondary epoch, which, so to speak, gained an unfair advantage as regards height by sitting on their hind legs in a kangaroolike manner, and limit our comparison to such as walk on all four feet in the good old fashioned way, we shall find that giraffes are not only the tallest mammals, but likweise the tallest of all animals that have ever existed.—Knowledge.

Leather Like Velvet.

The manufacture of leather is reaching what must be almost the highest perfection of the art. A new process has recently been patented in France for the production of a leather which both to the touch and eye has a striking resemblance to velvet. Leathers of this description hitherto manufactured have been obtained by treatment of the flesh side of the hide or skin. The flesh side of the skin being always coarse, the patentees claim now to secure better results by treating the hair side. They scratch or rub the hair side with a rubber of strong erosive qualities, or with emery or glass, when working small surfaces, and use a grindstone for heavier work. In this manner a downy nap is brought out which they throw and lay in different directions, thereby bringing out varied designs of changing hue and appearance. The velvety surface produced is said to be similar to the down of a peach skin. The fiber is very fine, soft to the touch and has all the appearance of silk velvet shorn very close.—Shoe and Leather Gazette.

As there has been much inquiry both by individuals and the press in regard to Columbia and the lands for sale adjacent thereto, we thought it advisable to offer our explanation together with the views of persons owning lots and lands there.

Columbia is situated in Hewitt township, Clark county, Wis., on the Northwestern line, C. St. P. M. & O. Ry. The lands were originally pine tracts with tall and thrifty timber, thus showing a fertility of soil far in excess of what is generally termed the "sandy lands" of Wisconsin. The soil is a heavy sand or loam soil with clay sub soil and sand stone foundation. There are no hills or swamps but a slightly rolling country. We believe the lands to be as good as any in the state for the purpose for which their natural adaptation fits them. No lands can be better for grazing and stock raising, and they will produce largely of various grasses, corn and potatoes. The sugar beet that has brought wealth to France, Belgium and Denmark, can be produced on these lands as shown by the Agricultural department, at Washington. H. D. Lochman, who owns and lives on a farm adjoining the townsite of Columbia secured fifteen dollars ($15.00) in first premiums for yellow dent corn and vegetables of various kinds at the county fair held at Niellsville this past fall. This speaks well for the country when in the county there is land valued at $100 per acre

Among the many who have purchased lands and lots this summer, might be mentioned Mr. Jacob Burgy of Montello, Green county; one of the largest farmers there; also Mr. Ole Walden, of Argyle, LaFayette county, and John Bryner of Monticello, who purchased land at $7.50 per acre and is well pleased with the land. Mr. Burgy says he would not accept $10 per acre for this land of 320 acres. The soil, vegetation and character of the water all point to make a good and prosperous country. These lands are within the reach of all, and with proper treatment of the people of Clark county towards the people coming into that community will make that country the home of prosperous and wealthy people In the sale of lots the price is from $5 to $50.00, the company paying the taxes two years and in some cases giving free tickets from Chicago and Janesville to Columbia, and if the lot buyers will help build up the town and thereby increase the valuation of their lots, there is no reason why they should not make money on every lot bought. The water power of Fall river or Wedge's creek, of 1963 horse-power, was surveyed and power given by Edward Ruger, and the townsite surveyed by O. G. Bleedorn, of Janesville, Wis., and their reputation is too well-known to be questioned.

C. S. Graves. DEAR SIR:—I am of the earnest opinion that the land you have, is adapted for grass particularly clover; I think three men and a team will clear from one to two acres a day. I am going to clear up some of mine in the spring, sow clover on it and run a springtooth harrow over it and my opinion is that I would have an enormous pasture for stock.

Yours Truly,
OLE C. WALDEN.

C. S. Graves, Janesville, Wis —

DEAR SIR:—In reply to your favor of recent date regarding your land in Clark county, Wisconsin, I am well acquainted with the same having examined it carefully and find it of a black, sandy loam soil, clay subsoil with a sandy stone base, well watered with good springs and small streams, sloping gently to the south. I consider it cheap at the price asked and know of no better land in the state for grasses, potatoes and vegetables. For dairying and general farming there can be none better. It can be put up in shape for crops very cheap and there is no waste land as it can all be used. Yours Truly.

ARGYLE, Wis. Dec. 12, 1893.

C. S. Graves. DEAR SIR:—In traveling over the land you have for sale in Clark county, Wis., I find it most excellent for the price asked for it is without doubt the most desirable place for farming, stock raising and dairying, being well watered, abundant of grass and hear to market.

Yours, J. I. OLESON.

BROWNTOWN, Wis. Dec. 19, 1893.

C. S. Graves. Janesville, Wis.

DEAR SIR:—After a careful examination of your land in Clark county Wis., I purchased some of it and at the price of $7.50 per acre. I consider it cheap as the soil is of good quality with clay subsoil and will make good farms. There is excellent water and I would advise anyone to buy this land in preference to going west or paying $40 to $75 dollars per acre. I also own lots in Columbia and after seeing them are perfectly satisfied. You can refer any one to me if you want to. NILS ANDERSON.

TOUGH PIECES OF MEAT.

What to Do With Them—Roasts For an Epicure—A Superior Hash.

There are a great many unpromising looking pieces of meat that make excellent braises and other dishes. But if any one imagines that it is as easy to prepare a tough piece of meat that has abundance of fat and sinews in its make-up as a prime roast, she is mistaken. It requires time and patience to deal with a sinewy piece of beef. If the meat is to be a success as a braise, the greater part of the fat and all the sinews must be removed. It is not at all difficult to do this, but it requires patience and a keen edged knife about the size of a boning knife. Keep the knife near the sinew and scrape it away from the meat on both sides. Continue until all the sinews are removed.

A tough piece of round is very much improved by this process. There are so many sinews in the leg that it had best be used for soup, though the patient French cooks very often take the trouble to prepare this cheap meat for stews. These stews they serve with piquant sauces flavored with tomatoes or mushrooms, so that the whole dish takes on a grand air and is really delightful to eat, while the meat is deliciously tender.

A breast of veal with its surplus fat and gristle is not a very promising subject in the hands of an inexperienced cook. But remove the soft bones very carefully, so as not to waste a particle of the meat, and remove a large portion of the fat. Make a well flavored stuffing. If you wish, use about a pound of clear, lean veal, chopped fine and pounded to a paste, to the loaf of bread used for the stuffing, or make the old fashioned dressing of bread crumbs alone. In either case use a small onion and a liberal teaspoonful of parsley for flavoring and bind the dressing together with two or three raw eggs, according to their size.

Economic cooking of a superior order cannot be done in slapdish manner. A fine roast can be cooked more quickly than a breast of veal, but it costs about three times as much. The veal takes twice as much time to prepare. Either dish is equally delicious. An epicure might prefer the breast of veal, if it was prepared in perfection. Even a roast must be attended to while it is cooking, but probably bears neglect better than almost any other service of meat, always providing the fire was right when it was put in the oven, says the New York Tribune.

It is because of her dainty care and skill in flavoring that the French housekeeper excels in her ragouts and other rechauffes. She seasons a hash with as great care as if it were a piece of choice game. The result tells in the excellence of the dish. The careless cook who chops up the debris of meat from the last meals without stopping to separate the lean from the fat and remove all the bones and sinews is sure to make a failure of her work. In all hashes except corned beef, where a little fat is allowable, all fat should be removed and clear lean used. Look over the meat very carefully. If potatoes are used, allow about half the quantity there is of meat. The care taken in this matter will pay in the superior excellence of your dish.

A BRIGAND IN POLITICS.

The Notorious Tiburzi Voted For by Anarchists of Rome.

We hear so much in this country of political brigandage, piracy and corruption that it ought not to surprise us to read that in the supplementary elections held recently for members of the Italian chamber of deputies a number of anarchists in some of the districts of Rome voted for Tiburzi, the brigand, who has been hunted by the king's soldiers for years and has a price of $2,000 set on his head. The police arrested several anarchists for distributing pamphlets in favor of Tiburzi.

Dominico Tiburzi is one of the three remaining Italian brigands of note, the others being Ansuini and Fioravanti. Tiburzi was a cowherd at Cellere. In 1872, when 25 years of age, for a highway robbery, extortion and murder, he was condemned to penal servitude for life. In January, 1874, he escaped from the salt mines of Corneto Tarquina and has since eluded all efforts to capture him. Between Civita Vecchia and Grosseto, in the solitudes of the macchia, he has lived for 20 years, defying the rewards offered by the authorities.

Tiburzi does not rob; he does not steal; he does not harm any one. He levies taxes after his own fashion. The wealthy of the neighboring districts pay him every month a fixed contribution—money, wine, bread, weapons and tobacco. In recompense he guarantees the safety both of their lives and of their property. In short, he acts as a public guardian for them. The relations between the brigand and the people are of a most friendly description. The poor, when destitute of food, come to Tiburzi. He also gives them coin, with which he is always well provided. The rich land owners pay most willingly the tax which brings them an entire security for their rural property.

But woe to the spy! Sooner or later the hand of the brigand strikes him, and an atrocious vengeance rouses the authorities and convinces the unbelievers of the existence of the legendary brigand. In this way Tiburzi lives. In these 18 years of hiding from justice Tiburzi had several companions; but, less skillful or less fortunate than he, they have all perished. The last were Domenico Biagini and Luciano Fioravanti. In 1889 the three together were surprised by the carbineers; a sharp fight ensued; Biagini fell dead. The other two succeeded in escaping, vowing vengeance.

They believed the spy was a certain Raphael Gabrielli, and a year later he was murdered by Tiburzi and Fioravanti in the presence of 50 persons.

Failing to catch the archbrigand, the government last summer arrested and imprisoned 250 persons, including mayors, priests and minor officials, as his abettors. They were tried and sentenced to short terms of imprisonment and fines.

The Narrow Distinction Between a Special Providence and Petit Larceny.

A New Year's Gift Heralded

The measureless popularity of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters has been the growth of more than a third of a century. As in the past, the coming new year will be ushered in by the appearance of a fresh almanac, clearly setting forth the nature, uses and operation of this medicine of world wide fame. It is well worth perusal. Absolutely accurate in the astronomical calculations and calendar will, as before, be valuable characteristics, while the reading matter will include statistics, humor and general information, accompanied by admirably executed illustrations. The almanac is issued from the publishing department of The Hostetter Company at Pittsburgh, and will be printed on their presses in English, German, French, Welsh, Norwegian, Swedish, Holland, Bohemian and Spanish. All druggists and country dealers furnish it without cost.

The original photographs would cost not less than a dollar apiece, but the Michigan Central enables you to get sixteen pictures for ten cents.

It's the finest. It's the most complete.

It's the best. It cannot be beaten.

Send ten cents to O. W. Ruggles, G. P. and T. agent, Michigan Central, Chicago, and he will furnish you with the first part.

A Contractor's Advice.

Dullman's German Medicine Co.: Gentlemen I take great pleasure in testifying in behalf of Dullman's German Blood, Liver, Stomach and Kidney Cure. I can safely say that I never took such medicine as that to cleanse the stomach and kidneys. I was suffering for years with biliousness, indigestion and loss of appetite and sleep. One bottle of it did me more good than six months' other treatment, and I feel it my duty to testify in its behalf, so others may find and get cured.

Yours truly, Mrs. McDonald, Milan, Mich. For sale by Palmer & Stevens.

A LYRIC.

When winds blow high, and frost is white,
And roads are steel, and trees are ice,
And window panes wear tracings light,
And all the world bears cold's device,
Night falls, and careful mothers pray
In sweet content, though storm wind whirls,
"Beneath one roof, till break of day
Sleep safe the careless boys and girls!"

All safe and under one rooftree,
All safe because the mother heart
Is near them; soft and tenderly
It broods until the clouds depart.
The time will come when birds must go
From out the parent nest away—
When lonely, though no wild winds blow,
The mother heart will sadly stay.

Ah, mother heart, ah, mother heart,
How lonely are the hours that pass,
When sleet and hail from heaven dart,
Or when there's sunshine on the grass;
How often you wish back the night
When the storm's fury seemed to fall;
How often strive to stay Time's flight,
And that drear winter backward call!

What matters storm? Ah, welcome rain
And the weird shrieking of the wind
Rather than sunshine and the pain
Of loss that saddens heart and mind.
The dumb cry for the wandering!
Come war without, if peace within—
If love beneath the rooftree sing,
What evil thing can enter in?

LOCKED IN.

Was it a dream?

As I opened my eyes a strange spectacle presented itself. In front of me was a scaffold supporting a guillotine. A man was pinioned, with his neck resting on the block, the tall executioner standing ready to pull the cord and liberate the shining blade that hung aloft. Around were grouped a priest and state officials dressed in French costumes of the last century. And the pale moon shed its somber light over all. In a moment I recollected that I must be in the chamber of horrors of Paul's waxwork exhibition.

I was spending a week in town, sightseeing. The preceding day had been a very fatiguing one, but I had promised myself an evening at the waxworks, and I had made arrangements for every other night during my short stay, so I went.

There is nothing so tiring as an exhibition, no matter what its character may be, and after walking up and down long galleries and climbing and descending stairs for sevearl hours I was completely "dead beat." Consequently, when I found a large block of wood—an executioner's block, I have since ascertained it to have been—in a secluded corner of the chamber of horrors, I sat down to rest.

I must have immediately fallen asleep and escaped the notice of the attendants when they closed the building for the night. When I awoke, the chamber was as still as a tomb, and bright moonlight, streaming in through the tall window, gave the place a weird and unearthly appearance as it fell on the hideous throng of the world's great criminals.

I rose from my seat and glanced around. I am not a superstitious man, nor am I particularly nervous, but a queer sensation crept over me. Perhaps the night air was chilly. Perhaps I had taken cold. I must get out of the place somehow.

The moon was now hidden behind a bank of clouds, and the place became quite dark. I stretched out my hand, and it touched something. Ugh! Cold, like the flesh of a dead man! It was the face of one of that murderous crew.

What a fool I was! They were only wax figures. That was all, of course. I tried to laugh at my absurd situation, but the attempt was a failure and left me more uncomfortable than ever. Perhaps they were smiling at me in the darkness. Absurd! How could wax figures smile?

And yet suppose that the spirits of these evil men and women haunted their counterfeit presentments. Living criminals, it was said, could not resist returning to the scenes of their crimes, and these mute statues were clothed in the very garments in which the crimes had been committed—garments from which the guilty stains had never been washed.

What was that?

I had taken hold of something made of cold metal. Horror! I felt it to be one of the knives with which murder had been committed. I was behaving like an idiot. I knew it, and I told myself so. But it was no use. I could not help wishing I were anywhere else. A vault or a crypt would be cheerful compared with this horrible place. The very air seemed to smell of crime. I crept forward until I came to some steps. Perhaps this was the way out. I went up and reached out into the darkness.

A hand! A foot! A body kneeling! Great heavens! I had ascended the scaffold—was the one solitary living being present at that awful mute mummery going on in the darkness of the night."

This sort of thing leads to madness," I told myself, as I crawled backward down the stairs. But what was to be done? I must get out somehow, or my nerves would not stand the strain.

Never until now had I realized how weak one's intellect really is. If anybody had told me a few hours before that I had so much dormant imbecility in me, I should have been indignant. I am, moreover, an imaginative man, and imagination is a curse on such occasions.

However, I determined that I would not give way in this manner. Advancing in another dircetion, I was stopped by a wooden wall or partition. Just then the moon came out for a few moments, and I saw that I was looking into a prisoner's dock.

There, close in front of me, stood some of the men and women who during the present century had become most notorious in crime. Their features were, in a number of cases, familiar to me from old books and recent prints.

I instantly recognized, among others, Burke and Hare, the former of whom was convicted in 1829 of a horrible series of murders on the evidence of his accomplice; James Bloomfield Rush, the Stanfield Hall murderer of 1848; Maria and George Manning, the two atrocious criminals of 1849; William Palmer, the Rugeley poisoner of 1856, and William Fish, Catherine Wilson, Henry Wainwright, the Stauntons, Lefroy and Lipski of later dates.

What a blood guilty assemblage with which to pass the night! How the crime of every individual seemed indelibly written on his face!

One man's expression transfixed me. held me spellbound and filled me with loathing and horror. Who he was I did not know, but I could not take my eyes from his face. And when the place again grew dark I saw it still standing out alone in the surrounding gloom, with the suppressed grin of a cruel and unrelenting fiend.

I hid my face in my hands. I threw myself on the floor until the vision slowly faded away, leaving me trembling in every limb. I dare not get up nor open my eyes for fear that I should see it again.

Suddenly a peculiar sound of jangling and creaking fell on my ears. What could it be? It seemed to come from the corner of the chamber where the instruments of torture were arranged for exhibition. The thumbscrews, tongue pinchers, branding irons, masks and cinctures, the gressilon, the moltiere, the cubitoire—all seemed to my excited imagination to be in movement and rattling one against the other.

Thoughts came into my mind of all the unspeakable agonies that had been inflicted by those diabolical inventions. This place would kill me. I felt I was going mad. Let me get free somehow—anyhow! I sprang to my feet and rushed like a maniac in the darkness, striking wildly at everything in my way in search for the door. Figure after figure I hurled to the ground as it came in my path.

All at once I felt strong arms close around me! I was struggling madly for life with this terrible unseen something that held me by the throat and was strangling me in the dark. I now saw again that fearful face! Was it that of my antagonist? I tried to cry out, but I was choking. Gradually I relaxed my hold, and everything became a blank.

* * * * * *

"You have been very ill, George, dear, but you are better now."

I looked around me. I was in a strange bedroom, and my sister Lucy was bending over me. I convinced her that it would be best for her to explain at once all that happened, for my terrible experience in the dark chamber now came back to me.

She said that the night watchman, thinking he heard sounds in the chamber of horrors, had descended to the place, when I immediately ran into his arms in the dark. In the struggle I had fainted. Brain fever followed, and I had narrowly escaped with my life.

My address had been found in my pocket, and my friends communicated with. The peculiar sounds that I had heard and exaggerated were doubtless produced by the keys of the watchman as he unlocked the door of the chamber.

The Beef Tea Fallacy.

One of the hardest notions for the untrained nurse to give up is that beef tea is a valuable nutriment. The recent assertion of a writer in The American Lancet that thousands of sick persons have been starved to death on beef tea is only a summing up of what physicians and expert nurses have been trying to impress upon the minds of the laity for some time.

Beef tea is a stimulant, slight and evanescent, but to "live on beef tea," which has been the shibboleth of many a sickroom, is impossible. And The Lancet further counsels that if it must still be made and used to perform its very limited service, to remember that, like plain tea, it should never be boiled. That method of making contributes a positive vice—that of indigestibility.

Shooting Off Your Mouth

Should be "Shooted" with care or some reporter will catch the shot and quote you thus:

FREE TRADE WOULD BE ALL RIGHT

Alderman Carrington Is Anxious to Have the Tariff Question Settled.

"There is no need of people crying hard times," said Alderman Carrington this morning. "This country is bound to prosper, whether it is free trade or protection. If congress would do either one thing or the other the country would be all right. If it is free trade laboring men will get down to a wage system of thirty cents a day. and so economize their living expenses that they will save one third of this amount, and the country will prosper. Manufactured articles are about exhausted, and the supply being short manufacturing must be resumed on some self-sustaining basis."

However this is a fair report of what Mr. C. did say but he didn't say it for "print."

What we do believe and what any thinking man or woman must believe is that the country is so rich, so vast, so grand in its resources that no political upheaval, let them upheave as they may, can CRIPPLE us for any great length of time WE believe in a protective tariff. MOST sensible people do; some people don't and they are an honest some, and a sensible some too; but we believe beyond everything else in our country, UNDER ALL conditions. If the powers that be will settle on some policy be it TARIFF or FREE we will (as as a people) pull ourselves together and work on the basis that the "powers" elect and we shall win. No policy of government, or those that make laws, can cripple the country FOR LONG. We are not politicians we ARE real state dealers. We have some bargains in our line. Come in talk BUSINESS, let politics alone.

Yours very truly,

GEO. L. & SARAH H. CARRINGTON.

ROYAL, the Superior Baking Powder.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., February 17, 1893.

I have, within the last month, purchased at the leading retail stores twenty-five samples of Royal Baking Powder, in original sealed packages, and have submitted each one to a careful chemical analysis as to its character, purity and efficiency.

They have been found to be cream of tartar powders entirely free from ammonia and all forms of adulterations and impurities, and to be of the very highest leavening power.

I have never examined a large line of samples obtained by purchase upon the retail market which have shown anything like the uniformity of composition and the very high degree of leavening power which is shown by these samples.

How Would It Do?

The question now before us is not to get the stuff; the crowded shelves, the counters full, both show we've got enough. What we need just now is buyers, folks who spend the ready cash, so we mention a few "flyers"—knock the prices into smash. This metrical announcement may tempt you to invest. You bring the money to us, OUR GOODS will do the REST.

We Offer These:

Knowing People will enthuse over them even in January.

1 Case Marseilles Bed spreads, the $1.25 quality, now $1.00. GOOD. 1 case $2.50 quality, at $2; better. 1 case $3.25 quality, at $2.75; excellent. The above three cases were bought at the large November auction sale in New York for us, and we offer them as extraordinary values.

200 Pair of Blankets and Comforts, included in this great low price sale.

25 Dozen Corsets, broken sizes, worth up to $1.00; all go at 25c.

20 Dozen Kid Gloves, assorted styles, black and colors—worth up to $1.00; have been marked to close at 48c.

30 Pieces White Muslin, in stripes, checks, bars, &c., formerly 15 to 25c—January price, 9c.

9-4 (2 1-4 yards wide) Unbleached Sheeting, good and heavy, 18c.

Red Flannel, 50 pieces: 50c grade, 36c; 40c grade, 27c; 37½c grade 24c; 30c grade, 23c; opera flannel and baby flannels that were 50c are now 37½c.

Cloaks. = =

We are having a very satisfactory sale of them so far as numbers are concerned; profit is not thought of now. Many women are buying our high grade Plush Sacque, knowing it is a good investment at the present prices. Have a few Astrakhan Sacques, but they will soon go. Cloth garments can be bought very low. Fur Capes same way.

This is a genuine January lessen-stock-by-making-prices-low-enough sales and the items mentioned are but an inkling of what we will do.

BEFORE AND AFTER USING.
